Defeat Stingless Hornets 52-14

Kalkaska Here for Homecoming Game

The Grayling Vikings had too much bench last Friday for Pellston as they routed the winless Hornets 52-14 for their second win in Northern Lower Michigan League action, and upping their overall record to 3-2.

This Friday evening, the Vikings will entertain the Kalkaska Blue Blazers in their annual homecoming game, and attempt to keep pace with Onaway in the fight for the NLMC championship.

Dan Moore, Viking tailback, set the stage for the evening on the first play from scrimmage, when he broke off left tackle, and went 54 yards for the first TD with only 26 seconds gone in the first quarter.

Moore later went 23 yards for his second TD, and also ran for one PAT. In all, he carried the ball 13 times, gaining 166 yards. Terry Fitzpatrick and Kim Parkinson also turned in fine offensive play, as Fitzpatrick ran 18 yards for one TD, passed 41 yards to Parkinson for another and ran for one PAT and (See Football on page 10)

Help! Help!

The Brownie and Girl Scout troops of the area are conducting a Betty Crocker Coupon drive Oct. 25 thru Oct. 30.

The coupons are to be given to Mercy Hospital to help toward the purchase of a Low Boy Whirl Pool Hydrotherapy tank.

Oct. 30 is the last day of the drive as the coupons have to be wrapped and mailed into the company for the redemption purpose and as of the first of December there were to be no more coupon drives of any type. There will be no door to door canvassing this year as time does not permit, but canisters and posters are placed in various business places around town. Everyone come out and deposit your coupons toward a good cause.

They need a total of 700,000 coupons for the whirlpool and the last count they had 97,189 coupons. Each coupon is worth something and every one counts so deposit them in the canisters. The difference in the coupons they have and the amount needed will have to be made up in cash, so do a good deed, deposit your coupons and help out the hospital.

Public Hearing October 29th

Adopt County Budget

A public hearing on the 1972 Crawford County Budget, which shows an increase of about 30 percent over the 1971 operating budget — has been set for Friday evening, Oct. 29, at 7:30 p.m. at the County Building.

The new budget, totaling $487,150 in spending for the coming year was adopted by the Board of Commissioners last week.

The increase amounts to $108,750 over last year's budget of $378,400 for expenditures in running the county government.

Anticipated revenue from taxes in 1972 amounts to $277,465.75 plus miscellaneous receipts amounting to $222,534.25 for a total of $500,000, leaving $12,850 in the contingencies fund.

A major increase in the budget is for $29,483 that will go to the sheriff's dept. and county jail operation, plus $9,500 placed in an ambulance fund.

General pay increases for county workers average $800 to $1,000 a person for 1972, Earl Longworth, board chairman said.

Not shown in the function

table (which appears below) for 1972 is the secretarial pool. These salaries have been included in the various county offices. At their October meeting, the board also appointed Mrs. Irene Wyman as district court magistrate effective Nov. 1 as recommended by District Judge Francis L. Walsh.

Mrs. Wyman has been secretary for three years to the present magistrate, Olin E. Williamson, who resigned for health and personal reasons.

The board also appointed

Burton McWilliams as a member of the Crawford County Social Services Board. He replaces Robert Shook, who resigned two months ago for health reasons.

Below is the function by function table of the 1972 budget compared to the present year's budget.

The Nov. 4th issue of the Avalanche will carry an itemized version of the 1972 budget as approved by the Commissioners, with the final adoption after the public hearing on October 29.

River-Use Rules To Be Aired At Hearings in Cadillac, Lansing

LANSING — The Department of Natural Resources announces this week that it will hold public hearings in Cadillac October 28 and in Lansing December 1 to air a proposed framework of river-use rules aimed at protecting environmental values and curbing conflicts on problem streams in Michigan.

The recommended measures were tentatively approved last month by the Natural Resources Commission and since then have been refined by DNR specialists.

In Cadillac, they will be open to public comment Oct. 28 starting at 7:30 p.m. in the Naval Armory. The Dec. 1 hearing in Lansing covering those same proposals will get underway at 1:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the Seven Story Office Building, located in the state building complex.

A third public hearing will be held in Lansing in early February to consider findings of a special AuSable River use study currently being conducted by the University of Michigan. That later meeting will also serve as a sounding board for changes in the rules which come out of the first two hearings.

Last month's tentative action by the Commission set the stage for the upcoming hearings. It also put the machinery into motion for clearing the proposed pattern of controls through several administrative checkpoints.

The final set of rules coming back to the Commission at a later date will carry changes and refinements which result from the public hearings and the other points of review under the Administrative Procedures Act.

As now recommended, the format of regulations offers watercraft permit requirements (from trout season opening through June 30), time restrictions, and controls against horseplay which (See River Use on page 10)

NOTES

FROM LANSING

BY LOU GRANTON

There's a game that some of the guys play down here — any number can play — it involves a map of the State of Michigan, the best population figures and guesses you can get — and a lot more guessing and juggling. It is called "What Are They Going To Do To Us?" and consists of laying out legislative districts to comply with the Constitutional requirement of reapportionment.

Of course, the Constitution has provided for an Apportionment Commission to do the job — but that doesn't slow down the amateurs the least little bit.

It seemed an exercise in futility — as several of the local games do — so far as I was concerned. The results are not likely to have much relationship to the realities of probable results from the Commission, I told myself, and I have paid little or no attention to the painstaking products of my friends' population figure fumbling and idealistic re-drawing of district lines.

Yesterday I was shown what was reported to be a tentative plan from some of the pros of this sport — the Democratic members of the Apportionment Commission. I have not recovered yet.

Like most Republican members of the House I would find myself in a different district — different in number (86th instead of 103rd) and in almost every other detail. Many Republican members would find themselves running against Republican incumbents.

Quite aside from what this does to those Republican incumbents, I think it is worthy of some thought as to what it does to the people of the districts.

One-man one-vote is here to stay — there's no point debating it's merits — so the districts need to be redrawn in line with our new information on population shifts — but it should be done in such a manner as to (1) conform to the requirements in the State Constitution — "compact and convenient territory contiguous by land" — and (2) cause the minimum amount of confusion and realignment.

Continuity is something worth preserving both in terms of effectiveness of service on the part of your representatives in Lansing and in their knowledge of the problems peculiar to their districts. It is also of value to the constituent — in the increased opportunity to know the peculiarities of those representing him.

The so-called current Democrat proposal has several wild examples of "Gerrymandering" and is the most wholesale disruption of relationships of the people to their elected officials one could imagine.

But it is early yet — perhaps this was just a warm up for Halloween. It scared a lot of folks.

Kid brothers who snoop are bad enough. Kid brothers who take notes while they snoop — they could grow up to be blackmailers!

Yet, Joey doesn't think what he's doing is really wrong. He's just having a little fun at Sis's expense. And that notebook will come in handy the next time she threatens to "squeal" on him.

Part of growing-up is learning what is fair and what is unfair. Part of growing-up, too, is learning to forgive someone who has been unfair to us.

Never underestimate the immediate value of religious training in the Church. Obviously it provides a sound moral and spiritual foundation for later adult life. But, right now, it is molding the attitudes and decisions which will influence his life today.

Some things are hard to forgive

Veteran's Day 1971

Veterans' Day will be observed this year in most states on October 25. This time of remembrance had its beginning as Armistice Day marking the end of World War I on November 11, more than 50 years ago. It is now the day on which the nation honors all veterans of the Armed Forces. They should be doubly honored this year for the thankless task of "winding down" the Viet Nam war — a conflict in which many of them have participated.

Unlike veterans of previous periods in our history, those returning from Viet Nam will find no brass bands awaiting them, but a nation preoccupied with dissension and confusion over economic and social troubles. These troubles would assume far more reasonable proportions if the respect of our nation, which is implicit in Veterans' Day, could enjoy a rebirth. A part of that respect can be redeemed by observing Veterans' Day in the spirit in which it was conceived by patriotic Americans of over half a century ago. There was no question then of the greatness of our nation, its purposes nor the quality of its citizens.

We should realize that what was true then is true now. There is no greater nation than the United States. Those who have served in its military forces are symbolic of everything in which free men believe — the Christian ideals of personal liberty, the rule of law and the sanctity of the home and the individual. There is no better time to pay homage to all of these safeguards of human dignity and freedom and to the members of the Armed Forces who have helped to preserve them than on Veterans' Day.

It Is Not Free

According to late figures from The Tax Foundation, a nationally known research organization, taxes — federal, state and local — now take more than $33 out of every $100 we earn. The tax charge against earnings includes not only things like income taxes, social security and sales taxes, but also hundreds of hidden taxes. The old cliché about supporting government by "soaking the rich" is seldom heard anymore, and for a very good reason. If government confiscated all taxable income over $10,000 it would provide enough additional money to run the government for less than two months.

When new taxes are levied against businesses, they are, of necessity, passed along to customers. Taxes are a major cost of business. All business costs come out of the pockets of consumers. When government performs a service for the citizen, it can be paid for in two ways: higher taxes or inflation. The point to remember is that it is not free.

Benefits Low

The GI Bill, the vehicle through which countless veterans of World War II and Korea received a college education, isn't doing the job it's supposed to any more.

The benefits which a veteran of the Vietnam War can receive under the program haven't changed. Unfortunately for the veterans, prices have changed.

A veteran returning from World War II could receive $500 per year for tuition and fees, plus a living allowance of from $75 to $125 per month. No one got rich off those benefits, but they were enough to finance an education.

As a result, 50 per cent of the men returning from both World War II and Korea attended some type of educational, vocational or technical institution.

But, only some 20 per cent of the Vietnam veterans returning from Vietnam go on to receive further education or training.

For nine months of education, a veteran receives $1,575, barely more than his father received. The total is about $900 short of what Michigan State University says is an "existence" level for students attending it.

By existence level, the university means the minimum amount of money needed to pay for tuition, books, room and board. It does not include clothing, insurance or expenses for things such as a car.

The veteran's problem is further compounded by a high unemployment rate which chokes off the possibility of his getting a good job.

The Michigan Legislature may do something about this situation.

The Senate already passed a proposal now waiting for House action that would provide for a public vote on a $100 million fund to help finance education for veterans of Vietnam. Originally, the proposal was worded as a constitutional amendment so that there could be a vote on it this fall if any other proposals were put on a state-wide ballot.

Now it will probably go on the November, 1972, ballot.

The measure would provide assistance of up to $1,000 a year for veterans who want more education, enough to put them at the "existence" level.

School Property Taxes On Way Out

For some time now, it has been apparent that the local property tax to support local schools was on the way out in Michigan—either to be completely sacked, or to be modified greatly.

It now appears that the property tax axe will be wielded by the courts rather than by the legislature or the voters themselves.

Gov. Milliken and Frank J. Kelley, state attorney general, have joined forces to present a test case to the state courts, claiming that the local property tax, set and levied at the local level, does not provide equal educational opportunity for all students in Michigan, and therefore is unconstitutional.

This court case is yet another approach to solve the two-pronged question of financing the burgeoning costs of education, and gaining some respite from the equally burgeoning impact of local property taxes.

Gov. Milliken has been battling for education reform for the past two or three years. He has proposed to the legislature that the local property tax be replaced by a statewide system of taxes to support local education.

So far the legislature has not seen fit to go along. The hangup in the capitol is not so much over the principle of the thing, as to the specifics on just what tax would replace the property tax. Democrats want a graduated state income tax; Republicans want nothing to do with tax graduation. The result has been stalemate.

Yet another route is also being pursued. That's a petition drive to put the whole question on the ballot so the people can decide directly. Again, the split in tax reformers has come over the specifics of the replacement revenue; but the petition route is still a possibility.

The Milliken-Kelley court case, however, appears to be the quickest and surest route to reform.

Kelley says the present school financing methods are "unfair, unequal and inequitable." The Kelley-Milliken suit contends that present school support programs—based on property taxes levied within each school district on each district's tax base—violates the federal and state constitutional guarantees that every person is entitled to equal protection of the laws.

The two top state officials acted after a California state court ruled out a similar property tax system for schools in that state. The California court ruled:

"This funding scheme invidiously discriminates against the poor because it makes the quality of a child's education a function of the wealth of his parents and neighbors."

If it's true in California, it probably is true in Michigan, too. The California case will undoubtedly find its way into federal court on an appeal, so the weary taxpayers—and parents—likely will have to wait for the final word for some time.

The Kelley-Milliken suit asks that the court make no orders affecting school millage before the 1973-74 school year. That makes sense, because otherwise it would be pretty disruptive for your kids to find out at the Christmas break, perhaps, that up to now they've been denied the equal protection of the tax laws; much better to find out during summer vacation.

What we're talking about is not peanuts. It adds up to about $1 billion a year in local property taxes that would have to be replaced probably by a statewide tax system of some sort. One billion dollars is a lot of state taxes.

It would probably make sense, under the expected favorable decision in the Milliken-Kelley case, that the state impose school taxes, and parcel them out completely, assuring—at least within Michigan—equal educational protection of tax laws.

If that is the case, then the state assuredly will take over complete direction of local public education. Local boards may stay around for a while as window dressing, but the hand that pays the piper will wield the big stick—if you'll pardon the mixed metaphor.

And why not?

Consumers

Want to Know

BY MARGARET SPADER
Director of Consumer Affairs
National Association of Manufacturers

Do microwave ovens carry warranties?

Most manufacturers offer warranties for replacing or repairing defective parts for two years after date of original purchase, with normal use.

Which type of dishwasher is more practical for small kitchens, a front-loading or top-loading model?

If the kitchen is narrow, the top-loading model is more practical. Front-loading models have a door that opens down with racks that pull out like drawers. So, considerable space is consumed while loading and unloading.

Why are some dishwashers called "built-in" models? Aren't all dishwashers built-in except portables?

"Built-in" or undercounter dishwashers are unfinished on the top, sides and back and are designed to be built into a row of base cabinets, under a continuous countertop. They are permanently connected to water, drain and electricity. These are naturally front-loading appliances.

What does the word "lumens" mean?

Lumens measure the light output—the brightness—produced by a light bulb. This term now appears on the sleeve that protects the light bulb along with other information that describes how light bulbs will perform on the average.

What's the difference between wattage and lumens?

Wattage measures the input, not the output of light. Lumens measure the output or the performance. Some people think that all light bulbs using the same wattage produce the same amount of light. This is not always true.

CONSUMERS' CORNER

What does a food processor have to do to get government approval of a new food additive?

It is very hard for a food processor to get government approval to add anything to a food product unless strict procedures are met.

The new additive must be proven safe for human consumption by a series of laboratory tests. The food processor or manufacturer of the additive is responsible for conducting the test, although in practice, most testing is done by reputable independent laboratories. Testing may take two years or more to complete, and cost thousands of dollars.

Government scientists check out not only the results of the tests, but the testing procedure as well. If the results are approved, regulations permitting use of the additives will be issued.

Regulations permitting an additive to be used limit the amount to be used to the minimum amount necessary to accomplish its intended purpose. No additives are permitted that do not perform a useful function in the food product.

"If It Fittz . . ." — Crop 'harvested' with guns

—By Jim Fitzgerald

"They are warm-hearted, generous men who do not want to see lady deer and baby deer killed. And they are willing to put their money where their hearts are," said Frack.

He was talking about the commissioners of my favorite county. They had just given $400 to the local deer hunters association. The money will buy "No Doe Hunting" signs which will be distributed free to landowners who agree that women and children should be last when they are deer.

Frack is full of deer droppings. That $400 was tax money — my money. And the commissioners were not acting out of sympathy for poor Mama Deer and the kids. They were acting under pressure from a bunch of sports who are angry because they've had to drive home from too many deer camps without bleeding trophies strapped to their fenders.

The Great White Hunter's theory is that there aren't enough bucks for him to kill because the dumb state lets hunters kill does. If all the does are killed, who is going to mother the bucks? Not the game warden, by damn.

But the state says there are too many deer and "the crop must be harvested" before it starves to death, or dents fenders, or eats some farmer's corn (After the St. Valentine's Day Massacre, Al Capone explained that the victims had to be harvested before they fell dead of malnutrition, possibly in traffic, or started swiping the cops' apples off fruitstands).

A pox on both the he-man sports and the "harvesting" state.

I don't begrudge the $400. In fact, I'd rather see 'em spend $800 and forbid all killing of deer, male, female or convertible.

To each his own sport. And I can see where shooting a gun is a sport. But why not shoot skeet or empty bottles on top of a fence? In my most liberal moments, I cannot understand the person who looks through the sight of a high-powered rifle, sees the soft eyes of an innocent deer, and pulls the stupid trigger. Look Ma, no head! Whoopee.

Would you believe golf is no fun unless you can hit a cow in the head with the ball?

And please, Mr. Hunter, don't ask me if I eat hamburger and prime rib. I can understand a slaughterhouse and it won't bug me until the butchering is featured on TV's American Sportsman with Rock Hudson knocking the steer's brains out with a golden hammer.

There's gotta be a difference between killing for pleasure, glorying in the bloodshed, and killing for food because there's no other way.

Some of my best friends go hunting but most of them insist they head north for the fresh air, fellowship and picturesque taverns. They wouldn't shoot a deer unless it attacked their waitress. God bless them, one and all. Waitresses should be preserved, even if not tipped. But the animals should also be preserved. They should be killed only in self defense. (You can quote me at the next meeting of your neighborhood deer hunters association. But remember, there is no open season on newspaper columnists. We are at the top of the endangered species list.)

Maybe the state is right. Maybe an unharvested crop of deer will some day gallop down the freeway and eat all our food. I would only ask that you don't shoot until you see the whites of their tails in front of you in the A&P checkout line.

LIVING- AS YOU LIKE IT

Throughout life there is no substitute for planning, for looking ahead, for anticipating the needs of tomorrow. The same is true where the retirement years are concerned. The individual who approaches retirement with a "wait and see" attitude often buys trouble and undergoes a difficult period of adjustment.

For the married couple, retirement can, and should, bring wonderful days, time in which to do many things. Sometimes, however, one partner may silently build a retirement dream, then find that it conflicts with the needs and the wants of the other member of the marriage.

The husband who wants to travel, or to buy a house trailer, a camper, or a cabin on the lake may discover that grandmother isn't interested. She wants to stay at home, near her garden, down the block from the grandchildren.

Even if he has mentioned his dreams from time to time over the years, the retired husband discovers at the moment of truth that grandmother isn't ready yet. She wants to remain on the old homestead for a while. She'll be glad to go, sometime, but not now, not this week, not next month. She has many things to do, many irons in the fire. Maybe next year. Let's think about it for a while.

In such an event, fault lies, too, with the husband. He assumed too much. He thought, when the time came, he would say, "let's pack our bags and be off." It's not so simple. When a man retires, his non-working wife still has the daily routine she has known for years, and a husband underfoot all the time, not just part of the time.

Communication and planning, before retirement day, is essential.

Ever stop to think that our supermarkets are really in the health business? For example, the meat department gives you protein, iron and B vitamins. The dairy section has calcium, protein, riboflavin. Baked goods and cereals supply carbohydrates, B vitamins and minerals, and at produce centers, the A, B, C vitamins flourish along with needed minerals.

Many of our larger supermarkets stock as many as 11,000 different food items but what they really sell are 57 kinds of nutrients in four basic food groups. That makes the supermarket the world's biggest and most complete bank of nutrients.

Time was when people ate most anything just to fill their stomachs. But modern homemakers know that "empty calories" are valueless. Nutrition is the essential factor in family health. Flavor is good, color is fine, and texture in food can be interesting but you can't live on them alone. You have to have a balanced diet to stay healthy.

Although each person's needs are different, the concept of good nutrition means a supply of all 57 nutrients in adequate amounts for each person to be ideally nourished. Smart shoppers know they need proteins, minerals, vitamins, fats and carbohydrates in diets as a general rule. They also know that some foods such as sugar and excess fats provide only calories without any nutrition.

The way to better health actually would seem to lie through the grocery store and the food we choose.

A good first step to learning more about the complicated subject of nutrition is to check your local library or bookstore for authoritative books on the subject. The extension service of state universities is another excellent source of information on nutrition.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

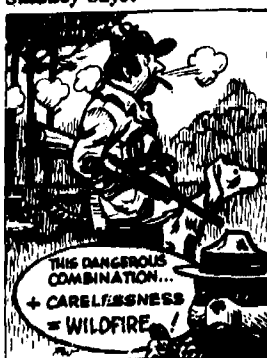

Someone has said that the way to bring peace to the world would be to force the leaders of each country to fight all battles, wage any wars that were declared. We might have fewer wars, but not necessarily greater peace in the world.

We shall never have world peace until we have world brotherhood. We shall never have real peace until every man learns to accept that which is "different" about his neighbor, whether that difference be a matter of race or creed. Prejudice, intolerance would have to go. The selfish, the greedy would have to mend their ways.

But, we expect too much. We are talking about a perfect world, which we shall never see.

What we can do, as individuals, is to try to make it better. Each of us, every day, by good works and by example, can help to make a better world.

On Saturday, Oct. 30, United Airlines is going to have one of its 737 Jets here in Grayling. This little beauty is going to take Grayling residents on a flight from here to Sault St. Marie, Georgian Bay, Alpena and back to Grayling. Four flights will be made, and each one can hold 90 people. Price is ten bucks, two of which will go to charitable organizations. Anyone interested in a jet flight on United should contact the Chamber of Commerce for reservations. The first flight starts at 10:30 in the morning.

— JP —

Speaking of airlines and flying, I was out of town for a day or so last week and flew to my destination and back. Now I like flying, and at one time, before and during WW II, The Big War, had a license. I also appreciate good service, an institution with most airlines. But most of us, when we think of flying, think of the major airlines like United, American or TWA. But there are many other airlines which are just as good. "Rubber Band Airlines" as they are unjustly called. Last week I took a Trans-Michigan flight from Traverse City to Detroit. It was a fine flight in a four engine DeHavilland. The plane was full — 15 passengers — but had a pilot and co-pilot (who also loaded and unloaded the luggage). It was an excellent flight, and for the first time in many years, I was able to see the ground. You know, with these jet flights you can't see very much. To be economical, they have to fly very high. With the DeHavilland that wasn't necessary. So, like a first time passenger, I gawked at the ground, seeing trees, farms, expressway traffic and housing tracts. I saw farmers working in their fields with tractors and school fields. The housing tracts were the most interesting. Buildings looked to be all the same, and probably were. But what was the most interesting was the swimming pools. If you saw one, you would see a bunch more, all spreading out from a common center. It really showed that affluent Americans are still concerned with "keeping up with the Joneses". It appeared to me like some great parental pool had whelped.

— JP —

The connecting flight out of Detroit was on American, that great monolith of efficiency and programmed courtesy where attention to the individual's needs must be subordinated to those rules and regulations which appear in some book on "How to Be a Stewardess on American." The book was probably written by someone who hated little old ladies and kids. The flight back was also on American and we were served a very hot meal — not unlike a regular TV dinner. From my vantage point near the galley, I watched the girls do the serving job. Trays were marked "first class" and "Y" which was all the others. I don't know what the First Class people got. It took a monumental amount of work to serve drinks and meals to all those people and then clear everything away in just over an hour and 15 minutes — but they did it. And those girls, who are probably not paid very much (but meet interesting people), did a fantastic job. The last frantic putting away was going on as we started the final leg of our approach to Chicago, and a small paper cup of salad dressing had fallen to the floor. In a last desperate attempt at her job, one of the girls gave it a kick under a seat ahead of me. The lid came off the cup and dressing splattered over a man's shoe. I thought the stewardess was going to cry, but it was the only truly human action I saw on the whole flight and it made me feel better.

Returning to Traverse City, I took my very favorite of all airlines, North Central. North Central is one of three airlines which made money last year. The other two are Northwest and Delta. Good equipment and friendly help really make for fun flying. And my only objection to the whole operation is the idiotic polo-player hats they have the stewardesses wear. But maybe there's a reason for that. It wouldn't surprise me if some day North Central might start a polo match on some of their bigger planes. It's that kind of an airline.

Winner of the color TV set given as the door prize Saturday, Oct. 16, at Sears Get Acquainted Sale was Ida Wilkie of Grayling. $10.00 gift certificates were won by Lynn Isenbauer and Eleanor Hunter, both of Grayling, and $5.00 gift certificates were awarded to Harold Duncan of Roscommon and Pearl Mathews of Grayling.

BOYNE CITY OVER JV'S 20-18

The young Vikings absorbed their first loss of the season after four wins. The loss also snapped Grayling's 11 game winning streak.

Grayling took a quick 6-0 lead after Jim Bobenmoyer ran the opening kickoff back to the Boyne City 15 yard line and 3 plays later Walt Kozicki scored. The two point conversion was nullified by a penalty and the second try failed.

Boyne City came back and scored in the first quarter. The Vikings had a score nullified by a penalty in the second quarter leaving the halftime score 8-6 in favor of Boyne City.

In the second half Grayling continued to march the ball up and down the field missing many scoring opportunities. Boyne City added two long touchdown runs to make the score 20-6 with 6:36 remaining in the game.

With defeat staring at them, the JV's went to work and Chris Duncley scored with 3:23 left in the game. The two point conversion attempt failed. A fired up defense unit got the ball back on the Grayling 25 yard line with 53 seconds to play. Two completed passes with the receivers going out of bounds left 16 seconds to play. Quarterback Duncley then hit Jim Bobenmoyer on a 60 yard touchdown pass to make the score 20-18. Duncley's pass to Dan McClain for the attempted two point conversion fell incomplete.

The JV's host Traverse City, Tuesday, Oct. 19th, and Onaway Tuesday, Oct. 26 in the season final.

Dinner to Honor Senator Griffin

Traverse City — The youngest senator in the U. S. Congress, Senator Bob Packwood (R-Ore.) will be the featured speaker at a National Birthday Dinner in honor of U.S. Senator Robert P. Griffin (R-Mich.) in Traverse City, November 6.

The event marks the 48th birthday of Griffin, the Senate's assistant minority leader, and is one of 14 dinners to be held throughout the state. Eleven counties are participating in the Traverse City celebration.

Twenty U.S. Senators, 3 governors, and 2 cabinet officials will attend the various dinners. To be held in the Michigan Room of the Park Place Motor Inn, with a reception scheduled for 6:15 and dinner at 7:15, the event will be headed by general chairman Larry Hardy. Al A. Beatty, Grayling, is Crawford County ticket chairman.

Tickets for the dinner are $50 per couple. General ticket chairman Stuart Hubbell stated that over 50 of the tickets had already been sold, so that only about 120 are still available.

Hardy said, "The purpose of this dinner is to indicate to Senator Griffin how much the people of this area appreciate his work in Washington." He quoted Griffin's "boss", Senator Hugh Scott's statement that, "Griffin is highly respected by his Senate colleagues of both parties and Michigan has been the beneficiary of his bi-partisan leadership abilities during nearly 15 years of public service."

Senator Packwood, who defeated 24-year-veteran Wayne Morse in 1968, was named Oregon Speaker of the Year by his state's Speaker's Association, and is recognized as one of the most articulate and capable spokesmen on the national scene.

He is a member of President Nixon's "Commission on Population and the American Future." His committee assignments include Banking; Housing and Urban Affairs; and Labor and Public Welfare. He was also named this year to the important 5-man committee making an in-depth study of the senate seniority system. Awards he has received include the Brotherhood Award and the Oregon B'nai B'rith Anti-Deformation B'nai.

BRING EM BACK HOME

WASHINGTON AND SMALL BUSINESS

AS HEARD BY HEARD

Wait and See

The sudden reversal of the Federal economic plans leaves many questions unanswered.

Perhaps the greatest of all the questions is what happens after the 90-day freeze ends early in November. Will the lid be taken off or will even more rigid controls be placed on the economy?

Another question that is valid at this time is whether or not the present program is a half measure.

Many leading economists have said that the only solution for getting the nation out of the condition it was put into by a quarter century of wild political spending and taxation would be the adoption of an income plan.

Such a broad over-all plan would not only freeze wages, prices and rents, but interest rates, dividends, profits, and in fact all transactions.

However, it was chosen not to go the whole route, but freeze only a part of the economy. The big question will be whether or not there can be a healthy economy partly frozen and partly unfrozen.

The recession the country ran into probably defies any application of classic economics.

Usually, when unemployment mounts, the demand for goods and services declines, which forces prices down. But this nation has had perhaps the unprecedented experience of prices continuing upward as employment took the downward path.

It is also classic economics that low cost imports into a nation not only brings down employment in that nation but at the same time curtails the cost of living. But imports increased in volume, and the cost of living increased.

In fact, everything that was supposed to stop inflation happened, but inflation rolled merrily on, and may still do so.

There has been only one steady upward trend, and that is the constantly increased taxes, largely at the state and local level although the Federal bite has not been small, either.

There are many opinions on what the administration's new program will accomplish.

In the meantime, inasmuch as economic trends do not result in immediate changes, it is well to wait and see what develops before becoming upset.

It is quite possible that as an end result, it will be learned that the major source of the national economic problems is high taxes. If so, no time should be lost in cutting them to the bone, no matter whose pet political project falls by the way.

October 11, 1971

Dear Mr. Madsen:

I was disappointed in the recent radio program "It's a Troubled World" because they offered so few insights into solving Crawford County's drug problem. While I am no expert in the field of drugs, I have tried to do my homework in it. If possible, I would like to offer over a period of time some suggestions as to what individuals, families, and organizations could do to solve the problem.

In his book, "Is Your Family Turned On," Charlie W. Shedd has focused on several aspects of the personality of the drug user and non-user. He suggests that the major common denominator among non-users of drugs is a feeling of closeness within the family circle. While no general statement is ever true for everyone, this offers us an interesting starting point.

Draft Calls Resumed

Draft calls will be resumed in November and December for 1971 first priority registrants with random sequence numbers 125 and below, state Selective Service Headquarters has announced.

Draftees will also include volunteers and extended priority registrants with random sequence numbers 190 and below. The 1971 first priority group includes registrants born in 1951 or earlier who received lottery numbers of 125 or below in 1970 or 1969 and who are available for induction during 1971.

Registrants selected for induction will receive at least 30 days notice instead of the 10 days required under present regulations. All inductions will be completed by December 9.

Students and teachers who are reached for induction in November and December may have their inductions postponed to the end of the current semester, quarter or term.

Local boards have been directed to suspend action on all classifications, personal appearances and appeals until new regulations are issued under the 1971 amendments to the Selective Service law.

Local boards will continue all other normal registration, physical examination and induction procedures pending issuance of new regulations. Registrants should continue to submit information to draft boards which may affect their classification.

Fitzpatrick Winner Of Helmet Award

Terry Fitzpatrick, Grayling Viking quarterback, was named as co-winner in Class C for the Coca-Cola Golden Helmet Award by the Bay City Times Sport staff.

Fitzpatrick shares the Class C honor with Ron Ives, the Coleman Comets quarterback. Both players will receive plaques.

Mike Sturm, Times Sports Editor, writes in his column in part:

"Grayling's Fitzpatrick had a busy, busy night for a quarter-back as the 6-2, 185 pound junior ran the ball 26 times for 134 yards, hit 7 of 16 passes for another 118, and scored two touchdowns. Playing middle line-backer, he was credited with 8 tackles and four assists, as the Vikings won their first start in the NLML with a 24-6 decision over Mancelona. Defense comes naturally to the rangy player, who won his varsity letter as a sophomore backing up the line."

Mr. and Mrs. Vern Oliver called on Mr. and Mrs. Del Lauden-slager of Breckenridge on Friday. The latter had just put a new mobile home on their lot on Danish Landing Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Sonny Cogan of Bay City were guests of the H. D. (Whitey) Madsen Saturday evening.
